Meet Mr. Smith.

Except that's not his real name. He doesn't know what his real name is. That's just the name they gave him when he woke up in Wayward Pines Hospital with near-complete amnesia.

There's something special about Mr. Smith, something they won't tell him. For instance, what was in that IV they jabbed into his arm? Why can he remember the names of all the bones in the human hand and who first sang the role of Otello at the Metropolitan Opera House, but he can't remember where he grew up or what he ate for dinner the night before?

Enter Miss Tate, the mysterious candy-striper with a troubled past. Why does Smith feel such an attraction to her? Why does Nurse Pam despise her so much?

Mr. Smith will have to escape Wayward Pines Hospital to learn the truth.. The truth is out there somewhere. He just has to survive long enough to find it.

Meet Mr. Smith. Locked within his head is a single secret, a secret that could change the world and possibly bring an end to the idyllic town of Wayward Pines.
