Today we are going to be hearing directly from some of our Nation's wounded warriors, who will share their views and firsthand experiences on how DOD and VA can further improve the transition for servicemembers and veterans. I look forward to hearing from you about what went well, but also about how you may have been negatively impacted by the lack of collaboration between DOD and VA, and what you believe can be done to improve the transition for the thousands upon thousands of servicemembers still to come home. I also look forward to talking with our departments' witnesses who are working to improve this critical transition period to ensure veterans are not falling through the cracks. I know that VA and DOD have big challenges facing them. Servicemembers and veterans continue to take their own lives at an alarming rate. Wait times for benefits continue to drag on for an average of a year or far more, and the quality of prosthetic care continues to be inconsistent between the departments.
