500 years into the future Earth has drastic problems. Another few years and she was be considered uninhabitable. Help comes in the form of an alien race known as the Atblorians.

The Atblorians need males and females of a different race to mate with because of a virus that has left their kind unable to reproduce with each other. The aliens offer to help heal Earth in exchange for volunteers to be mates.

Matilda doesn't have much to lose and volunteers to be a "Space-Ordered-Bride". When she arrives on Atblora, she meets her mate for the first time and is shocked to find out he doesn't want her! What is she going to do? There's nothing back on Earth for her and her new life is already a disaster. Unfortunately, she is forced to go with the man named Adike and must live with him until other arrangements can be made. But, an invading enemy known as the Wealhex have set their targets on Atblora and the one man she wants to get to know so desperately.

Adike is a retired Atblorian soldier. Retired only because he was forced by the council after his near death on a small planet that cost the lives of many of his men. Summoned to pick up a package, Adike realizes he has been fooled into taking an unwanted mate. He does his best to let her know he doesn't want her and that she wouldn't be staying for long at his home. His plans go wrong when the Wealhex attack his planet, sending him and Matilda on a run for their lives. They have to get to the Docking Bay so Adike can join in the fight to rid Atblora of the enemy. Adike lives with the guilt of his soldiers' deaths and blames himself for surviving. Can Matilda help him see the error of his ways and heal him?

Along the way, the pair will fight to survive and get to know each other better. Feelings will change as they depend on each other more and more.
